JP Bachmann has had anything but a normal career path. From a robotics engineer to national sales leader in the Information Technology industry to professional speaker and author, JP has become an expert in goalsetting, relationship development, and helping others unlock their full potential. As founder of The Dash Legacy, LLC, JP's purpose in life is to help those around him develop goals which will align their career to their purpose, elevate careers, and help his audiences raise themselves to new heights.

JP has trained audiences all across North America, and as far at India in career development, purpose discovery, public speaking, customer engagement, and sales methodology. In his goalsetting workshops he employs subconscious programming, empowering your mind to take the lead, enabling the audience to achieve their loftiest, and most ambitious career and life goals.

JP is an active member of Toastmasters International, a global non-profit educational organization that teaches leadership and communication skills. He has earned the Distinguished Toastmaster award, and has led the organization in Colorado and Wyoming as a District Director, serving over 2000 members through leadership and training.
